

THE CENTRAL RECORD.

THIRTYSECOND YEAR

LANCASTER, KY., THURSDAY AFTERNOON, JULY 7, 1921.

NUMBER 14.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS

Big Tent Spread On College Campus.

The big tent of the Redpath Chautauqua was erected on the grounds of the High School last Monday preparatory for the 1921 program which opened yesterday afternoon and will continue every afternoon and evening, except Sunday, through next Monday evening.

The superintendent in charge this year, will be Mr. John P. Evans, who together with his wife and son arrived last night.

Mr. Evans has been with the Redpath Company for the past twelve years, lecturing during the winter and performing the duties of superintendent during the summer season. In speaking of the 1921 program, he told the writer, "you may say to the people of Lancaster and Garrard county, that in my twelve years experience and work with the company, I have never had to superintend a better program than the one that will appear here this week."

The Junior worker this year will be Miss Nadine Blair, graduate of the Columbia School of Expression, and comes with the highest recommendations. Her entertainments will be held every morning, beginning Thursday.

The tent men include two splendid young men, Mr. John H. Carter, a medical student of Thome University, and Mr. Merle Babin, a student of sociology, at the University of Chicago. Mr. Foley Snyder, known as the "seven day man" has been with us for a week and has made many warm and personal friends. He is a graduate of Georgetown, and is a Kentucky boy worth while.

Those who didn't hear Ada Ward last night, missed the treat of the season. She is everything that the company had promised of her and a lecturer of the highest type and standard. She is a unique entertainer, using the organ and blackboard to illustrate her points.

The Brahms Trio are billed for this afternoon and tonight. Charles Zuehlke's lecture, "Wiser than Solomon" will be the chief feature of the evening program.

Interesting Exhibit.

Miss Georgia Dunn, who has given so much of her young life to prison work, Christian Endeavor movements and Sunday School work, had a very interesting display of hand made work in the office of the County Superintendent, Miss Jennie Higgins, for several days last week.

This work was all done by the inmates of the State Reformatory at Eddyville and Frankfort, and showed wonderful skill in its making. The collection consisted of walking canes, picture frames, fancy work, pipes, drawings, etc. This will all be taken by Miss Dunn to the World's Christian Endeavor Convention which convened in New York City this week and will be entered in the bazaar at this meeting.

Candidates Can't Make Promises.

Candidates for county offices who are promising to serve for less than the statutory compensation or to endow the road or school funds out of their salaries or remit automobile license fees may disqualify themselves for the office in the opinion of Attorney General Charles L. Dawson, who wrote J. Ballard Clark, County Attorney of Oldham county, from Frankfort, in regard to a candidate for sheriff in Oldham who promised to give 25 per cent of his salary to the road fund of the county.

"Of course," said the Attorney General, "such a promise is made for one purpose and that is to induce the voters of the county to support the candidacy of the person making the promise. In my judgment such a promise is not only void as against public policy and therefore cannot be enforced but if as the result of such promise the persons are induced to vote for the person making same the candidate is guilty of bribery."

"I am further of the opinion that it could be shown that sufficient number of persons voted for the candidate on the strength of the promise to nominate or elect him in a contest, courts could be compelled to hold his nomination or election as illegal."

"This is true notwithstanding the case referred to is not specifically covered by provisions of the corrupt practices act."

GARRARD INTERESTED

In Co-operative Market- ing Plan.

About 100 business men, bankers, tobacco growers and farmers attended a meeting at the Court House Tuesday afternoon in the interest of the proposed co-operative barley tobacco marketing association.

Mr. James C. Stone, Lexington, member of the organization committee, was introduced and told of the possibilities of the organization. Mr. Stone was followed by Joseph Passonman, organization manager, who told of the success of the plan in the states of Washington, Oregon and California.

Practically the entire audience approved the plan of the co-operative marketing and as a result of this meeting another will be called for Monday, July 25th, when every tobacco grower and farmer in Garrard county is expected to be on hand. At this meeting, speakers of prominence will be here, among them Judge E. C. O'Neil, of Frankfort.

Copy of Central Record Aids Owner in Finding Stolen Car.

Alfred Young, a trusty, drove away from the Frankfort reformatory last week in a "borrowed" motor car and is thought to have escaped to Dayton, Ohio. A negro boy was taken in custody in that city with a motor car bearing no license tag, according to a message received here by chief of police, James Bratton last Friday, from the authorities of Dayton, who stated that the only clue was a copy of the "Central Record" found under the seat of the car and bearing the name of Mrs. H. V. Bastin. This information was immediately phoned to Mr. Bastin at Frankfort, who in turn called the chief of police at Dayton, who identified the car. The negro was held for driving a car without the license number and claimed to have been given the car by a white man who had asked him to ride into Dayton with him.

Young has not yet been captured.

Centers

Mr. D. H. Centers, formerly of Estill county, but a resident of this county for a number of years, died at his home on the Cartersville pike on June 27th. He was 67 years old last September. He was one of Garrard's most prominent farmers, and his loss to the county is a severe one.

He is survived by his widow and nine children, the latter being, Vernon Centers, of Oswego, Oregon, Mrs. A. N. Johnson, of Irvine, Ernest Centers, of Revenna, Mrs. G. C. Cox, of Richmond, Messrs. Tandy, Walter, John, Forest and Mrs. T. H. Wagers, of this county.

While confined to his bed for only one week, Mr. Centers had been in failing health for the past two years. Funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. C. A. Van Winkle. Burial was in the Richmond cemetery.

Wallace.

Friends of Henry Wallace, one of the most prominent and well known citizens of Paint Lick, were shocked to learn of his death, which occurred at his home Wednesday morning about three o'clock.

For several months he has been a sufferer of heart trouble and only those who were near and dear to him realized his serious condition.

Mr. Wallace was a consecrated member of the New Hope church and was a citizen liked by all his acquaintances. He is survived by his widow and fifteen year old son, Jewell, who have the sympathy of the community in their sad loss. Mr. Wallace was the youngest son of the family. One sister, Mrs. Fanny Francis and one brother, Salem Wallace also survive. Burial will take place at Richmond this afternoon.

Scant Skirts Inspire

Rev. Straton to Verse.

New York. —(Associated Press Dispatch.)—Scant summer styles have inspired the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, to pen a "poem," which reads:

"Mary had a little skirt,
The latest style, no doubt;
But every time she got inside
She was more than half way out."

GOAL IS REACHED

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ASSURED FOR LANCASTER

146 MEMBERS SUBSCRIBE $3,500 YEARLY FOR THREE YEARS.

Lancaster is to have a Chamber of Commerce. This is a settled fact beyond question. The minimum quota has been subscribed, one hundred and forty six members having pledged $3,500 a year for three years. The next thing to be done is the election of officers, which will be done by a referendum, one of which has already been sent out to every member, asking that member to signify his choice for President, Vice President, and three directors. This referendum is then to be returned to the committee who will tabulate same and report such result to the organization committee.

The referendum committee is to first choose the three names who have received the largest number of votes for president, vice-president, and the three directors, these will then be submitted to the entire membership who have been called to meet at the court house Friday evening, July 15, when an election by ballot will be held.

It is hoped that every member will name his or her choice for these officers and that the entire membership will be at the court house on the final evening of the election.

It is a source of great satisfaction to those who have interested themselves in launching the Chamber of Commerce and we believe the interest will increase and many more members will be added by the time the organization is effected. On another page of this issue we print the list of members and hope before another issue, other firms and individuals will be added.

What A Chamber Of Commerce Means.

1. A man says that a Chamber of Commerce is a necessary adjunct to any live city, a dead community needs not a Chamber of Commerce, but flowers.

2. A prominent business man says: "A community without a Chamber of Commerce would be like a locomotive without steam—standing still. Membership in the Chamber of Commerce permits me to supply my portion of that steam necessary to run the engine. In other words to make possible community progress."

3. A real estate man says: "Any thing I can do to make my city a better place in which to live, and do business gives me satisfaction in knowing that I am doing my part. The Chamber of Commerce affords this opportunity, and I am happy to say I am a member of that organization."

4. A business man makes it very clear when he says: "As a resident and business man of this city, I would not feel that I was living up to my full opportunities and my full obligations towards the city in which I live and in which my business is located, if I did not co-operate with the other business men through the Chamber of Commerce."

5. A professional man said a great truth when he gave his reason for being a member of the Chamber of Commerce: "Why am I a member? Why does a farmer put fertilizer into the soil? To increase his crop. That's why I believe business and professional men should co-operate through the Chamber of Commerce. If they expect to get continual business, then surely they can not always reap a big crop without preparing the soil. The Chamber of Commerce is tilling the soil and I want to always help."

6. This comes from a business man: "If I drop a stone into a pond, it makes a ripple that travels to all parts of that pond. The influence of the work of the Chamber of Commerce is felt here because every new industry that is induced to come into this city increases the demand for homes and that demand is felt here. It protects and promotes our business through the co-operation of men from every part of the city."

7. Another man gives his reason for becoming a member of the Chamber of Commerce as follows: "I have joined the Chamber of Commerce because it is absolutely necessary to the business community. Without it our various interests would be like a brass band without a leader. The quality of the music a band will produce depends upon its leader, so the harmonies and progress of our business community will depend upon how we are supporting the Chamber of Commerce and how successfully we can lead our band."

GILBERT

Tells Of G. O. P. Broken Pledge.

Washington, July 2.—Representative Ralph Gilbert, representing the Eighth Kentucky district in Congress, today took the Republican administration to task for failure to carry out its platform pledges to render assistance to Armenia. He addressed the House of Representatives on the subject, calling attention to the list of new Armenian horrors, and stating that he had information that the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House has no intention of taking any action in regard to the situation there.

Representative Gilbert charged that neither the executive nor the legislative branch of the government under the new administration, has undertaken in any way to assist the Christian people of Armenia. "In spite of the Republican professions during the campaign that if their candidates were elected they would come to the assistance of the people of Armenia," he declared, "all they have done is to refuse to authorize a mandate for Armenia, which President Wilson asked permission to accept."

Miss Syler's Work Endorsed by Fiscal Court And County Board Of Education.

At a meeting of the Garrard County Fiscal Court last Friday, the entire court sitting, the work of Miss Joyce Syler, our county Home Demonstration Agent, was unanimously endorsed by the court and an appropriation of $250 a year was allowed from the levy of 1921.

The County Board of Education had previously appropriated $300 a year toward her salary and at the meeting last Friday, the trustees of the Lancaster Graded and High school, added an additional appropriation of $50 a year. The U. S. Government in conjunction with the State Agricultural College allow $600 a year toward the work of the demonstration agent, if the remaining sum of $600 is made up in the county.

The work that has been accomplished by Miss Syler during the past six months, has brought splendid results and it is a source of great satisfaction to the people of the county, who have seen her work, to know that she will be retained here for another year and perhaps as long as she desires to stay.

Miss Syler is now taking her vacation at her home, Sugar Creek, O., but will return August 1st, to follow up the several projects that she has laid out for the coming six months.

Haselden Draws

First Place.

Col. Joe S. Haselden, one of the republican candidates for Senator, won first place on the ticket at the primary, at the official drawing at Frankfort last week, over his opponent Mr. Robert L. Davidson, of Stanford.

Big Day At Crab Orchard.

Last Monday was a big day at Crab Orchard Springs. Attracted there by the celebration of the glorious Fourth, and to sip the healing and soothing waters of that famous resort, and last but not least to see the game of baseball between Lancaster and Stanford.

Crab Orchard Springs Hotel is running over with guests, all of whom are enthusiastic of the treatment and service which the present owners are handing them.

GIRL'S TEAM

To Be Selected From Garrard For The State Fair Con- test.

Garrard county is one of the thirteen counties selected to send a home demonstration team to enter the contest at the State Fair. The team will represent the Garrard Junior Agricultural Club. Other counties from which teams have been selected are Graves, Jefferson, Boyle, Shelby, Union, Harrison, Simpson, Harlan, Laurel, Mercer, Oldham and Whitley. Miss Anna Durham, assistant state leader of the junior club work, will assist Miss Joyce Syler in selecting the team that will represent Garrard county.

Starting July 1st, community contests will be held in each of the counties, at which community teams will be selected. These teams will train throughout the summer and just before the State Fair will compete in a county contest which will determine the team which will enter the Fair contest.

The girls will demonstrate poultry culling, canning by steam and hot water method, bed making, dyeing, and the making of kimono aprons. This is said to be the first time that such a contest has been held for the club girls.

Cutting Bathing Suit Ball, Morrow Wins Applause.

Frankfort, Ky., July 2.—The "Governor's Ball" and the "Bathing Suit Ball" at Crab Orchard, neither of which, the Governor telephoned the management, he ever had any intention of attending, has attracted widespread interest, judging from letters and telegrams received at the Executive Department.

"I've received some very undeserved criticism about this ball," the Governor said. "I don't think the advertisement said I was going to attend or that I had been consulted about it, but some persons seem to have gained the idea that I was in some way connected with it."

Two telegrams were received today. One from Mrs. Charles Hughes, Mrs. Rena Shannon, Mrs. Mollie Watkins, Mrs. J. A. Stucky and Mrs. Nora H. Taylor, Lexington W. C. T. U., said: "We commend you in your refusal to sponsor the bathing suit ball on costume." The other was from Maggie McKee Cheek, Danville, saying: "Your action about the ball at Crab Orchard meets our hearty approval."

Missionary Meeting.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist church met recently and carried out one of the most interesting programs had in several months.

The afternoon was devoted to Rural Schools, which was very ably discussed by Miss Westover, our local Red Cross nurse, telling of the conditions of the schools in the county. This was followed by several papers, read by different members of the society. A talk by Miss Gill, the school attendance officer, was greatly enjoyed.

The Broken Pitcher.

Falmouth Outlook: The old pitcher may make many trips to the well, but it finally falls and smashes to pieces. Gov. Morrow has been running his pardon mill pretty regularly ever since he has been in office. The pitcher has slipped from his hand a time or two, but did not fall hard enough to be smashed into pieces. The Governor pardoned Frank Blair, a notorious criminal with a bad record, and has made a mistake that has caused him humiliation. He has acknowledged the corn, but that does not pacify an enraged public. It is difficult to send a man to the penitentiary, and when he is placed there the keys should be thrown away. Gov. Morrow has two more years to serve and if he sustains his pardon record through these next twenty-four months he can convert the penitentiary into a sleeping porch.

BIG CHAUTAUQUA AT PAINT LICK

From July 11th. to 15th. Attractive Program Has Been Arrang- ed For.

Backed by many of the most prominent citizens and business men of Paint Lick, boosted and advertised by the entire community, that thriving little city, is to have a chautauqua running five days from July 11 to 15, that promises to eclipse anything that has yet been undertaken in that end of the county.

One of the big features of the five days' program will be the presentation of the play "Cuppy" Ricks, from the famous stories of Peter H. Kyne, in the Saturday evening Post. "Smilin' Bob" Briggs, entertainer, crayon artist, musician and story teller of the program. The Kendree Concert Party, Scotch musical entertainers, is also said to be exceptionally good. In fact, the whole program is well balanced and worth seeing from start to finish.

Word from Paint Lick is that season tickets are going like hot cakes, and a delightful week of entertainment is anticipated by all.

TUBERCULOSIS

Fatal To Willie Tribble

Friends and relatives in the county were distressed to hear of the death of William Tribble, age 26 years, at Detroit, Mich., last week. He had lived there for several years, before moving from this county. He was a son of Mr. John Tribble of this county and leaves many friends who have learned with sorrow of his passing. Beside his father, he is survived by two brothers and four sisters. The remains were brought to Richmond last Thursday, the interment taking place in the cemetery at that place.

Taft Made Chief Justice

Former President William Howard Taft was nominated by President Warren G. Harding to be Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court and his nominations was confirmed by the Senate in executive session. The nomination was not confirmed without opposition, however, and a roll call was demanded. On the rollcall, however, only four votes were cast against confirmation. These were by Senators W. E. Borah, Hiram W. Johnson and Robert M. La Follette, republicans, and Senator Thomas E. Watson, democrat, Georgia. When told of the appointment, the ex-President said: "It has been the ambition of my life to be chief justice, but now that it is gratified I tremble to think whether I can worthily fill the position and be useful to the country."

Elliott

Mrs. Juan Elliott, age 80 years, died at the home of her son, Dr. W. M. Elliott, last Wednesday night, after an illness covering several years. About two years ago, Mrs. Elliott sustained a fall which resulted in severe injuries, it together with her age, was the primary cause of her death, being practically confined to her bed since the accident.

Deceased was the widow of the late Milton Elliott, who passed into the Great Beyond about 17 years ago. She was devout in her religious duties, thoroughly consecrated to her work, and up to the time of her accident, always attended the Christian church, of which she had been a member since early childhood.

Mrs. Elliott is survived by five sons, Dr. W. M. Elliott, of this city, J. Nathan Elliott and J. G. Elliott, of Lexington, Milton Elliott, of Frankfort and Prof. H. H. Elliott, of Louisville; also by four daughters, Mrs. R. D. Steele, Los Angeles, Mrs. Florence Herr, Denver, Mrs. Chas. R. West, Cleburne, Texas and Miss Cecil Elliott, of Greenville, S. C.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of Dr. W. M. Elliott last Friday morning by Rev. E. B. Bourland, assisted by Rev. H. S. Hudson, interment following in the Lexington cemetery.

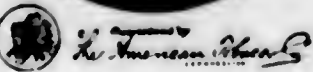

Protracted Meeting

Rev. Frank Tindler will begin a protracted meeting at Bethel church next Monday night, July 11th., and will continue as long as the interest lasts and his time will permit. All are cordially invited to attend these services.

Farm And Home News From Over Kentucky

Four Lee county farmers cooperating with County Agent T. H. Jones and the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture will conduct demonstrations with grasses and clover during the summer, according to a report of County Agent Jones. Those who will cooperate are T. T. Brandenburg, Clayton Congleton, Zach McGuire and James Maloney.

Farmers of Fulton county cooperating with County Agent O. L. Cunningham and Assistant County Agent J. P. Ricketts have started a better sires-better stock campaign. They are also making plans to organize a livestock shipping association.

D. K. Stinson, a Henderson county farmer who is cooperating with County Agent D. W. Martin, will conduct a wheat variety demonstration this fall, according to a report of Mr. Martin. He will plant 60 bushels of Ashland wheat, the new pedigreed strain developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Two other farmers in the same county will conduct similar demonstrations.

Graves county farmers have used more fertilizers and land builders such as cow peas, soy beans and red and sweet clover this year than in any previous one, according to a report of Assistant County Agent W. A. Humphries.

Cash prices and pigs amounting to $300 will be awarded to Fayette county pig club winners at the Blue Grass Fair this fall, according to a report of County Agent W. R. Gahbert.

Mrs. Dora Campbell, Henderson county, is planning to cooperate with County Agent D. W. Martin, in conducting a lime and phosphate demonstration with sweet clover on her farm during the coming fall. The farm includes 600 acres which have depleted of their fertility and as a result the demonstration is expected to show some important points in connection with soil building.

HOUSEWORK IS A BURDEN

Woman's lot is a weary one at best. But with backache and other distressing kidney ills life indeed becomes a burden. Doan's Kidney Pills have made life brighter for many Lancaster women. Ask your neighbor! Read what Mrs. Hester Gains, Compton St., Lancaster, says: "I have had attacks of kidney trouble that caused my back to ache so I could hardly get around to do my housework. There was a dull, nagging ache across the small of my back that throbbed and pained dreadfully at times. Mornings I was so lame in my back and hips I could hardly stoop over to put my shoes on. My kidneys were irregular and acted too freely and otherwise bothered me. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at McRobert's Drug Store and a short use cured me of the attack. I haven't been troubled with backache since."

Culling Rids Flock Of Birds That Loaf.

That the average poultry flock on Kentucky farms contains a number of loafer hens which may be distinguished from the laying hens during July and August and profitably removed from the flock is shown by results obtained with a flock of 28 Rhode Island Red hens owned by Henry Haag, Jeffersontown, Jefferson county.

Mr. Haag's flock was called by specialists from the poultry department of the College of Agriculture last fall and 13 hens removed because they showed the typical indications of the loafing hen. During the week before the flock was culled the 28 hens had laid 34 eggs. Mr. Haag kept records on the 13 culled and the 15 remaining hens for one week after the culling had been done and found that the 15 hens laid 40 eggs while the culled produced no eggs. The loafers were sold at the end of that time.

Poultry specialists from the college state that these results are typical of those which may be found on many Kentucky farms during July and August when approximately one-third of the hens molt and stop laying until the following spring.

Plans for a series of poultry culling demonstrations which are to be held in approximately 100 Kentucky counties and which are designed to show farmers how to tell the loafer from the heavy laying hen are rapidly being completed, according to J. H. Martin in charge of the college poultry work. These demonstrations will be held in cooperation with county farm agents who will arrange meetings to cover two days in their individual counties. During this time specialists from the college will meet with the farmers and by using the flock on the farm where the meeting is being held will point out the poultry and their wives the outstanding differences between the culled and layers. In this way it is hoped that farmers will be able to return to their farms and eliminate the loafers from their own flocks.

July 15-25 Best Time To Plant Second-Crop Spuds.

Most second-crop potatoes in Kentucky are planted July 15 to July 25, according to A. J. Olney, of the horticultural department of the College of Agriculture who states that this period has been found to be the best one for planting. The second crop of Rural and Bull Moose varieties are planted about July 15 while such varieties as the Irish Cobbler, Early Ohio and Triumph are planted as late as August 1st.

Indications are that an application of from 400 to 500 pounds of acid phosphate an acre outside of the bluegrass area is profitable. If animal manures are applied directly for the potato crop they should be plowed down in the fall. Fresh manures should not be applied just before planting as they are apt to cause a too rapid drying of the soil and encourage scab development.

Had His Teeth Cut After All

By HAROLD SINCLAIRE

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union)
John Marsh was going to the city, and his friends at the village general store were apprised of the fact. They were quaint, old-fashioned fellows, in the main, and they shook their heads dubiously when John told them of his determination "to see the sights." He laughed at their serious warnings.

"Oh, I've got my eye teeth cut!" boasted John.

"You didn't have last time, when you bought that 'gold' watch for fifty dollars," submitted old Alvin.

"That was the usual entrance for you see," explained John, but coloring. "They won't catch me the second time. You all got wild when I bought that stock in the Golconda gold mine for a dollar a share. Now it's two, and paying a big dividend. Besides, Lucy will be with me."

John Marsh was very proud of Lucy. Well he might be. His only child, she was his idol. Also that of every marriageable young man in the town, especially Vincent Harrow—but of that later.

She had taught school for two years, for her father was by no means a wealthy man. In fact, outside of some two thousand dollars, invested safely, as he supposed, he had only the small farm where he lived, at the edge of the village.

He had high hopes of Lucy, however. For a year she had been attending a city art school. He was going after her now, to bring her home for vacation. One more year, she had told him, and she would be able to produce something that the people would pay for.

John had a very neat idea in his mind, he fancied, as he reached the city early the next morning. He had a part of the dividends from his mining stock investment in his pocket and he planned to make Lucy a hand some present. To make it a surprise and a pleasure for her, he determined to get her something in the art line.

"Real high art," he explained to a man he met just outside of an auction store to which he had been directed.

"You'll find it here," declared the chance acquaintance.

Some really valuable pictures were being offered for sale, but only a few. They had been concealed in various packages, seized and were now offered for sale. John's companion must have conveyed some hint to the auctioneer for when the latter put up a gaudily framed dangle, designating it "a rare Meissonier," the man nudged him.

John got the picture for one hundred dollars. He kept the picture wrapped all the way home, Lucy by his side. It was fortunate that he was not looking at Lucy later, when he proudly exhibited his purchase.

"Yes, father," she said, in a subdued and disappointed tone. "It is quite—quite attractive, and the frame is very bright and new."

She did not tell her father that he had been swindled. A week later he had something else to think of. The Golconda, after paying unearned dividends, blew up, and honest John's cash surplus was consumed. Lucy painted evenings, and on her father's birthday presented him with her first finished canvas.

"Why, say," observed the old man, "what's the matter with ripping that old dangle out of place—for I know now that it is one—and using the frame which is pretty fair for an auction frame, after all?"

This was agreed to. Her lover by her side and her father regarding them indulgently, Lucy began to remove the old canvas from its frame backing. To her surprise, as it came free, there showed under it a second canvas.

"Why, Lucy—" began her puzzled lover.

"Oh, Vincent!" interrupted Lucy, in a delighted gasp. "It's a real Corot!"

"What's that?" said her father. "A gem—almost priceless," declared Lucy, who knew art when she saw it. "See—signature and all."

It all proved true. In some way, undoubtedly, one of the pictures concealed by the foreign shipper to evade paying duty, had got mixed with the ordinary stock of the auctioneer.

John Marsh had to take another trip to the city the next day. He accompanied Lucy, carrying the precious Corot in a grasp that he was determined no thieving miscreant should break.

An art connoisseur paid fifteen hundred dollars for the treasure. Lucy was able to resume her art studies, her engagement with Vincent was shortened, and John Marsh was able to gloatingly declare that he "had his eye teeth cut," after all!

Portable Elevator a Space Saver.

The portable elevator has come into its own of late, especially since the scarcity of buildings compelled manufacturers and others to utilize their space to the utmost. Portable elevators are now being employed for no end of purposes, such as piling barrels, cases, bags, bales, machine parts and crates. Any goods, bags included, may be piled up to the ceiling—straight up from the aisle, "stepping" the packages or bags and waiting half the space along the aisle has been eliminated through the use of the portable elevator. Thus the storage space has been increased without a single change in floor space.

Want to Feel Just Right?

Take an NR Tonight

JUST TRY IT AND SEE how much better you feel in the morning. The "NR" headachy, tired, don't-know-what's-the-matter feeling will be gone—you'll feel fine.

TROUBLE IS, your system is clogged with a lot of impurities that your overworked digestive and eliminative organs can't get rid of. Pills, oils, salts, calomel and ordinary laxatives, cathartics and purges only turn the bowels and poison the liver.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and even kidneys, not forcing, but toning and strengthening these organs. The result is prompt relief and real, lasting benefit. Make the test.

Nature's Remedy will act promptly, thoroughly, yet so mildly, so gently, that you will think nature herself has come to the rescue and is doing the work. And oh, what a relief! You'll be surprised to find how much better you feel—brighter, better able to work.

10 tablets are sufficiently dosed, take one NR tablet each night for a week. Then you'll not have to take medicine every day. Just one occasional NR Tablet dose that will be sufficient to keep your system in good condition—keep you feeling just right.

New Home, Sweet Home! Was Written
John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home," was an American minstrel who wandered all over the earth, practically. After the death of his parents, when he was twelve years old, he never had a real home, and at the time of writing the song he was stranded in Paris, a foreign land, away from all the friends he held dear. He wrote the song on a dreary day in October, 1822.

For Ferns.
One teaspoonful of household ammonia in one gallon of water is an excellent combination for watering your fern occasionally. Use this not more than once a month. It will make ferns grow.

Line the Linoleum.
When purchasing linoleum for the floor it is a good idea to order a lining of felt. This precaution will probably prolong the use of the linoleum. It also deadens sound and makes the floor warmer in winter. It prevents the linoleum from expanding or contracting and it gives a softer tread, all advantages worth considering.

The Dreamy Fisherman

There's something about a rod an' line
An' the gentle swish o' the willow trees,
That sets this wanderin' brain o' mine
To drowsy dreamin' of mysteries.

Out on the bank of the river, I Can see what never I've seen before,
Ships an' their cargoes passin' by
Jewels an' silks from a distant shore.

Out of the dust of the centuries
Kings an' pirates an' princes rise,
An' the bugles call to the summer breeze,
An' the wide world travels before my eyes.

I've talked with sages an' walked with men
Who lived an' died in the long ago,
They've sprawled on the bank with me, too, right then
An' chummed with me like the folks I know.

A lonely fisherman! Oh not I.
There's never a minute that I'm alone,
For far off there is a patch of sky
I can see all things that the world has known.

Is July To Be Hot?

Are we in for a scorching summer? Some of June's sample hot days make it appear so.

But last winter was mild. And a mild winter usually is followed by a cool summer, for nature has a way of evening up the yearly temperature. Sometimes she skips a year or two, but in the long run cool summers follow mild winters and hot summers follow cold winters.

In the last 140 years, the country's yearly temperature has averaged 49 degrees. Taking it by decades, it has never varied as much as two degrees from that average.

The coldest July on record was in 1816, the famous year when snow fell in the northern states every month.

The hottest Julys were in 1870 and 1876.

The coldest January was in 1857 and the coldest March was in 1885.

The three warmest decades were those ended in 1800, 1810 and 1920. The coldest decade followed the second hottest.

These figures, from the Weather Bureau, lend support to the old men in Lexington, who claim that "we don't have the winters we used to."

Maybe they're right, but the Weather Bureau says that there never is any permanent change in average yearly temperature.

You scowl at the thermometer and wonder whether it's going to get hot or cold.

Probably the cave man wondered likewise.

It was curiosity about the weather that made Galileo invent the thermometer in 1583. He knew it was hot that summer but wanted to know exactly how much—probably so he could boast to his grandchildren that he'd "passed through worse weather than this."

Galileo's curiosity about the weather was shared by his pupil, Torricelli, who invented the barometer, in 1643.

Similar curiosity 10 years later caused the Grand Duke of Tuscany to found the first weather bureau. He distributed weather vane, thermometers and barometers to monks all over Italy, and told them to send their observations to him by courier so he could determine whether weather is as fickle in one town as another.

At times we all curse the weather and the climate, yet mother nature has in her storehouse on earth every sort of climate and weather you

"Son of a Gun."
The phrase, "son of a gun," is sometimes explained as "Son of the Wind-pot or Flagon." There is a word "goon" which is a dialectal variety of "gown"—gallon. Another view is that the expression was originally applied to boys born on board ship. One admiral said that he had been cradled under the breast of a gun-carriage. It occurs in this sense in Smyth's "Sailor's Word Book" (1907). It is usually used in a deprecatory sense.

Public Sale OF REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY OF J. E. WHITETED Saturday, July 9 2 O'CLOCK P. M.

"During the year 1920-21, manufacturers of cigarettes are making the greatest profits in the history of the industry."

The Wall Street Journal, probably the most authoritative financial journal in the country, makes this statement on the basis of figures compiled by experts, and by the manufacturers themselves. Such a pronouncement should be of great interest to the tobacco growers, since the prices paid to the farmers of Kentucky during this period, were much lower than the prices during several previous years. In fact, this decrease in the price paid to the farmer is offered as one of the two principal reasons for the enormous profits made by the manufacturers.

In 1920, Kentucky produced 467,500,000 pounds of tobacco. According to Wall Street figures, the average price for the 1920 crop was 23.2 cents less than the price of the 1919 crop. This reduced price meant increased profits of more than $107,000,000 to the manufacturers. A certain part of this decline is held by some persons to be due to the 1920 crop being of inferior quality. Expert tobacco men at Lexington and the Bluegrass say, however, that the 1920 crop was a very useful one for smoking tobacco brands.

But granting that the 1920 crop of tobacco was not of the most valuable quality, this factor would be counteracted by the lower labor costs in manufacturing, as the cost of living declined.

"It was estimated last year that 70 per cent of production costs went for leaf. With prices for leaf cut in half compared with those for the 1919 crop, the enormous saving to the cigarette manufacturer is obvious."

Add to these considerations the fact that the price of cigarettes in which Burley tobacco is used has not been reduced, and it becomes apparent that the greater part of the money represented by the reduced price paid growers for tobacco must have gone to the manufacturers as profits. To swell these figures still further, a great increase in the use of cigarettes is indicated by figures for the first four months of this year.

"A production of 49,000,000-000 cigarettes (estimated total 1921) would mean an increase in profits (to the manufacturer) of $24,500,000, says the Wall Street Journal. "As a result of lower leaf prices, cigarette manufacturers are making unprecedented profits. It is officially estimated that one of the big manufacturers purchased its 1920 supply of tobacco at something like $20,000,000 less than it cost in 1919. The increased demand for cigarettes makes unlikely a reduction in cigarette prices for the time being.

These statements are not made by the Wall Street Journal nor quoted by this newspaper to prove that the manufacturers are treating either the grower or the public unfairly. Plainly, the manufacturers are only following principles found to be sound in any business. They buy the raw product at the lowest price that will insure continued supply, and sell the finished product at the highest price that will insure a continued demand.

But something evidently is wrong when the producer loses or at least does not make money, when the public demand is greater and when the manufacturer makes profits unparalleled in history.

What is wrong then, and what is the remedy?

The chief offender, we believe, is the present system of marketing tobacco. The remedy is the system of co-operative Marketing of Tobacco which is being put before the Kentucky growers at this time.

Under the present system, all the Kentucky tobacco crop is dumped on the market usually in a period of less than three months. Since the money needed to move the tobacco crop from the producer to the factory runs into hundreds of millions of dollars, it is evident that such sudden demands cannot readily be met by even the largest companies. Banks are slow to lend money excepting on the best security. The manufacturers must pay high interest rates to get the use of such enormous sums for this period. Doubtless it is in part to absorb this high rate of interest that the price of tobacco leaf is cut whenever the manufacturers think it possible to do so.

This dumping process, which is highly expensive both to grower and to buyer, would be avoided if the proposed co-operative marketing association is adopted in the burley-producing territory. The selling season would extend over a greater part of the year. The manufacturers could buy and pay for the tobacco gradually, as their financial conditions justified. It would be easy for them to stabilize their credit.

As a result, the manufacturers would not be forced to borrow at high rates of interest, nor to cut the price of tobacco to absorb this rate. At the same time, the growers, through the directors of the association, would be in a position to deal directly with the manufacturers, without the medium of a large and costly corps of buyers hired at the expense of the manufacturers, and passed on by them to the growers.

These two factors would combine to enable the manufacturer to operate on a smaller margin of gross profit, with the same amount of net profit. By elimination of wasteful methods, and the substitution of scientific grading, both grower and manufacturer would profit, without increasing the price of manufactured tobacco to the consumer.

These are the logical conclusions of the situation pointed out by the Wall Street Journal.

Numerous other reasons could be advanced showing the necessity for the Co-operative Tobacco Marketing Association. The plan is sound economically and it is sound financially. Co-operative Marketing of Burley tobacco will mean millions of dollars in the pockets of tobacco growers each year. Every grower should sign the contract.

Another Gouge?

Warning has been sounded in the United States senate that the coal barons are pulling the wires preparatory to another holdup in the price of coal next winter.

It is not surprising. On the contrary, it is quite to be expected. Officialdom has boasted loudly and long of dire punishments to be inflicted upon gougers. In fact, there has been so much of blowing and bunk there has been no room left for action.

Coal barons know this. They have profited for it in the past, and they expect to do so in the future.

The public has been milked so often and so successfully the barons cannot conceive of the possibility of a kick that would upset the bucket.

A United States senator has given public and timely warning of the scheme.

It is up to some one to thwart it.

We have an attorney general of the United States.

We have district attorneys all over the United States.

We have a law that deals with highway and wholesale robbery, whether it be at the point of a gun or the pulling of secret wires by unlawful combinations of plutocrats.

Some one doesn't turn the key.

Why should we be robbed again next winter?

High Cost Of Talking.

Congresswoman Alice Robertson has appealed to congress to "stop talking and save money."

Right—a dead center shot.

There must be a great surplus of wind in congress when a woman deems it expedient to appeal to the men to talk less at the expense of their countrymen.

The congresswoman estimates that one week of congressional talking costs the country nearly ten thousand dollars in printing bills, and that only covers a part of the expense.

And yet there are two sides to even this question.

If our distinguished congresswomen were not talking us poor in Washington they might be talking us to death at home.

We hate to part with our money, but we are determined to cling to life.

Let'em talk—in Washington.

When Gossips Talk.

Talk is cheap if you get it from a gossip," says an exchange.

But it isn't.

Talk that comes from a gossip is expensive.

It kills time, it kills truthfulness, it kills decency and it kills morality.

A reputation that has been built up by a lifetime of correct living may be blasted in a day by the talk of a gossip.

The milk of human kindness is curdled when it comes in contact with the tongue of the gossip.

The gossip sees but little that is good and much that is bad in human nature.

And gossips will talk, and people will listen, and believe and condemn.

It is not only expensive, but it is demoralizing and degrading.

Good Medicine.

People living in town and working in stores and offices are apt to experience a sluggish feeling these warm days.

The excessive heat reduces their vitality and a lack of proper exercise keeps it down.

Mopping off streams of flowing perspiration from their noble brows keeps their right arms in excellent condition, but the remainder of their bodies lag behind.

But there is a remedy, a most excellent one.

There is no doctor or druggist involved, no money to hand over, no bitter medicine to pucker the beauty from your classic features.

A garden.
A hoe.
A willingness to use it.
That's all.

Quite a number of picnics were given Monday, one at Cove Springs and one at the Dowsy pond and several at the river.

Misses Leah Mann and Nonnie Baldwin Grigsby, of Bardstown, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith on Maple avenue.

Mrs. Joe Hogg, of Richmond, and Mrs. Ollie Layton, of Cincinnati, have been visiting Lancaster relatives.

Mrs. Osee Huffman, who has been the guest of her niece, Mrs. Mae Hughes Noland, left Tuesday for her home in Louisville.

Mrs. Anna Frazer Hall, of Maysville, has been spending a few days in Lancaster in the interest of Hamilton College, Lexington.

Misses Virginia, Dorsey and Barbara Lee Hudson, of Flemingsburg, are guests of Rev. and Mrs. Harry Hudson, on Maple avenue.

Mrs. Charlie Davis and daughter, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Joseph, have returned to their home in Chattanooga.

Miss Georgia Johnson, Miss Virginia Dorsey, Miss Barbara Lee Hudson, Rev. and Mrs. Harry Hudson were visitors in Danville Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Gibbs and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Elmore and Mr. W. O. Goodline were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barnside.

Mrs. Jack Casey, of this city, was presented the silver cup for the best lady color at the tournament at Crab Orchard Springs Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Joseph, who has been spending several weeks here, left Monday for Bay View, Michigan, where she will stay during the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. H. A. B. Marksbury has returned from a two weeks stay with her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Staughton, in Covington. She was accompanied home by Mrs. Staughton, who will make a visit here.

Mrs. M. E. Fish and Mrs. Will Pettus, of Crab Orchard, Mrs. J. T. Rinehart and sons, William and Fish Rinehart and wife, of Louisville were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burnside and family.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hughes and daughter, Miss Margaret, who have been spending several weeks with relatives here, left Tuesday for a few days visit before going to San Diego, California, where they will reside in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bradshaw, of Danville, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a little girl, who was born last week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Dunn, of this city. The little lady has been named Eugenia Blanton Bradshaw.

Mrs. Cyrus Daily visited Miss Amanda Anderson last week.

Mr. P. D. Avert came up from Danville last Sunday for the day.

Miss Lou Ella Doolin spent Saturday night with Miss Alberta Spenke.

Miss Joyce Syler, is spending her vacation at her home in Sugar Creek, Ohio.

Miss Lula Sutton was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith.

Miss Lucille Thompson spent the week with Mrs. Sallie Anderson at Hubble.

Miss Addie Crisellis has returned from a delightful visit to friends at Harlan, Ky.

Miss Katherine Jasper, of Richmond, will spend the weekend with Miss Marilee Lear.

Miss Mary Noel, of Danville, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. James Woods on Richmond street.

Mr. and Mrs. Smiley Hill, of Frankfort, spent the weekend with friends in Lancaster.

Dr. E. V. Davis, of Morgantown, N. C., arrived this morning to join Mrs. Davis at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ballard.

Miss Alberta Spenke entertained at a lawn party Saturday night. About 35 of her friends were present. All spent a most enjoyable time.

Mr. Sam Henry, who for several months has been making his home in Pecos, Texas, was in the city last week, glad to see his friends who were equally as glad to welcome him back.

Miss Cecil Batson gave an elegant dinner party Sunday at the home of Mrs. Mary Leonard, on Danville street, in honor of Mrs. Dave Thomas. Those present were the class mates of Mrs. Thomas at Hamilton College, Lexington, the last year.

Miss Anna Houston returned to her home at Broadhead, Ky. Sunday, after a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. Mason Poynter. She was accompanied home by Mr. David Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Poynter and little son, Mason, Jr.

Friends of this delightful family will regret the temporary absence of Mrs. Henry Moore and son, Henry, Jr., and daughter, Miss Edith, who last week moved to Cincinnati. The children will enter school there and may be gone for a year or more. Mr. Moore will continue his residence here, looking after his interests in the Garrard Mills, but will make weekly visits to the Ohio metropolis.

Miss Georgia Strong, who has been visiting Misses Martha and Helen Gill, returned to her home in Cincinnati Saturday. There were a number of entertainments given Miss Strong during her visit here. The Misses Gill gave a very enjoyable bridge party Friday evening at their home on Maple avenue. Tees, cakes and mints were served. About twelve guests were present. Thursday evening a moonlight picnic was given in honor of Miss Strong.

Misses Amanda Anderson and Mildred Beazley are attending the Institute this week in Stanford.

One of the most striking social events of the season was held last Friday afternoon when Misses Mary Davis and Christine Sanders entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the lovely home of Miss Sanders on the Danville road, in honor of Mrs. David Allen Thomas. Color appointments of yellow and white were carried out in the decorations of the house. The dining room was especially attractive in yellow and white flowers. About on table and buffet were vases of the flowers and a large gold basket in the center of the table was overflowing with them. The tees, cakes and mints were in yellow and white. Frappe was also served. The gifts were arranged in a Mahogany basket and after the guests had assembled Miss Ruth Carrier, in a charming manner delivered the presents with the following lines:

"Mrs. David Allen Thomas and my dear friends: Some would call this a rather joyous meeting, others would call this a sad meeting, but I term it as both sad and joyous as it is a joyous day for you, Mrs. Thomas, to think that you have left the old 'mad class' and we would term it a sad day to think that we must give you up and we still belong to this same class. We have gathered here to present these few little gifts of love to you as you now start upon your new life. We envy you to think that in the mornings you will arise at about 5 A. M. to milk the cow, prepare the breakfast, wash the dishes and be through ready to entertain the husband until the noon hour when you will again go through with the same performance, so we hope that you can use these few little gifts in carrying on this great work. Then our minds again turn to the 'old mad' class and think that we must do the same thing, but without a husband. Our dear Mrs. Thomas, we welcome you into our midst and I wish to say in behalf of our girl friends present that my vocabulary is entirely too small in wishing that your married life shall be filled with perpetual love and sunshine."

A feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a receipt book by Miss Sue Shelby Mason. The guests present were Mrs. Chenault Elmore, Mrs. J. B. Sanders, Mrs. M. H. Sanders, Mrs. Sallie Ross Lawson, Mrs. J. E. Elmore, Misses Katie Barnes Dickerson, Carrie Belle Romans, Ruth Carrier, Billie Sanders, Stella Sanders, Thelma Hamilton, Sue Shelby Mason, Mildred Beazley, Martha Sweeney, Helen Guley, Gladys Frisbie, Cecil Batson, Charlie and Mary Elmore. Every detail was charmingly carried out and the hours were much enjoyed.

The following interesting announcement has been received by Lancaster friends and relatives:

Mr. and Mrs. J. Roe Young announce the marriage of their daughter

Hellen to

Mr. William Francis Grimes, Jr., on Saturday, June the eleventh nineteen hundred and twenty-one

Ballboa, Canal Zone

At Home after July first

Mr. Grimes is the niece of Mr. Charlie Anderson, of this city.

Delightful Picnic.

The descendants of the late Roy Arnold, met on the banks of Dix's River near the club house, to celebrate their annual family picnic.

This happy family consists of five boys and four girls, all now married. They are Alex and Roy Arnold, of Danville; Messrs. F. M., Ed L., and W. T. Arnold, of this county. The daughters being, Mrs. B. P. Swope, Mrs. W. H. Swope, Mrs. J. W. Walker, Mrs. J. W. Lane. With the 32 grandchildren and 14 visitors, this made a happy bunch indeed.

The menu consisted of 15 chickens, 50 pounds of fish, old henn, dressed eggs, salads, sandwiches, pickles, bread, coffee, iced tea, 30 gallons of lemonade, buttermilk and ice water. These heirs are always glad to meet and say, what a dear old fellow was "dad." (contributed.)

Christian Church Notes

Rev. E. B. Hourland left Wednesday for New York City where he will attend a short series of special lectures at Union Theological Seminary. Mr. Hourland will be gone about three weeks. In his absence Sunday School and communion services will be held every Sunday morning at the usual time and the young people will have their Sunday evening services at 6:45, but there will be no preaching services until Mr. Hourland's return except as the Sunday evening union services may be held at the church or some visitor may preach, in which event due announcement will be made.

EASY VICTORY FOR LANCASTER

Stanford Unable to Connect With Williams.

The Lancaster baseball team easily defeated the Stanford lads in a well played ball game at Crab Orchard Monday by the score of 11 to 1. Although this seems as if it was quiet a one way game, nevertheless it was extremely interesting from start to finish. The Lincoln lads won the toss up and went to the bat first.

Both teams had their best of players on hand and each were eager to win the game. At the Springs in the morning nothing could be heard but the talking of the game in the afternoon and both teams claimed that they would easily win the contest, however, it proved that Mr. Ollie Carpenter was right when asked how he felt about the game. "This will be the easiest victory of the season," he said.

Both teams looked forward to this game as the Interior Journal stated in last week's paper that the "old rivals" would meet again and that both teams were eager to win.

We wish to commend most heartily the two umpires from Stanford and Lancaster, Mr. Foster and "Silent" Geo. Sweeney. They were fair to both teams and proved to the immense crowd that saw the game that they knew base ball.

Capt. Kinnaird has an excellent team by his brilliant playing at first.

Following is the game play by play:

1st. Inning—Grimes walked to first, Embry beat out run to first. Nevius hit to right field, Grimes thrown out attempting to come home on Nevius hit, Withers fanned, Hill hit to pitcher out at first.

Summary—one hit, no runs.

Kinnaird, the first man up for the locals awaited the ball for a two bagger, Jenkins followed in his steps by swatting the ball to center field scoring Kinnaird, Cox hit fly ball to Grimes, Jenkins stole third, Lackey hit to short scoring Jenkins, Walker singled, Anderson fanned, Lackey stole home on Tucker attempting one of his "wind ups," Woods fanned.

Summary—3 hits—3 runs.

2nd. Inning—Walters fanned—Smith out at first—Messer fanned.

Summary—no runs no hits. Williams hit to center, Duke walks hit by pitched ball Jenkins hit to short safe on first, scoring Williams, Duke called out attempting to steal second, Cox hit infield fly catching Jenkins out.

Summary—one hit—one run, making score 4 to 0 in favor of Lancaster.

3rd. Inning—Tucker walks hit by pitched ball Grimes bunted to pitcher forcing Tucker to second, Embry hit to short Tucker safe on third, Grimes out on second, Nevius bunted throwing Embry out on second, Withers fanned.

Summary—One hit—one run.

Lackey hit to deep center for a three base hit—Walker out at first, Anderson fanned, Woods hit to second safe at first scoring Lackey, Woods stole second, Williams sacrificed scoring Woods, Duke thrown out at first.

Summary—2 hits—2 runs. Total 6 to one, Lancaster.

4th. Inning—This was a tragedy for Stanford boys it was three men up and three down—that was Embry, Walters and Smith.

In this inning they changed pitchers, Lancaster having knocked Tucker out of box, Embry was placed on the mound and stood the punishment of the local nine very good.

Kinnaird hit infield fly to first, Jenkins fanned, Lackey drove the pill to right field, caught coming in home.

Summary—One hit—no runs.

5th. Inning—Walker knocks fly to third baseman, Anderson beats out bunt to short, Woods hit to center, scoring Anderson, thrown out attempting run to third, Williams hit fly ball to first.

6th. Inning—This was practically the same as the 4th, Nevius knocked a "pop up" and Embry, Harvey and Withers fanned.

Duke caught out at first, Kinnaird fly ball to Embry, Jenkins drove the pill for what looked like a good three bagger and was caught on the run from second to third.

No runs—one hit.

7th. Inning—Walters fanned, Smith fanned, Messer connected with the ball for a good three base hit to deep right and died on third as Tucker hit at the wind.

One hit—no runs.

Lackey fanned, Walker singled, stole second and caught out on Anderson's fly ball.

No runs, no hits.

8th. Inning—Grimes fanned, Embry (Sam) beat out the run to first stole second, Nevius fanned, Withers caught at first.

No runs, no hits.

This is the inning when it looked as if Stanford would have to get still another pitcher for it looked as if Embry was through. Woods fanned, when Williams came to the bat with two strikes lifted to rail and connected with the little in of Embry for a home run, knocking the ball out of the park.

Duke the next man up drew a three bagger that looked good for another homer, Kinnaird hit to deep center, scoring Duke, resting on second, but was thrown out on an attempt to steal to third. Jenkins walked, Cox drove the pill to left field, scoring Jenkins, Lackey followed with a clean hit scoring Cox, when Walker had paly on the Lincolnite and fanned.

Summary—5 hits, 4 runs, making a total of 11 to 1.

The first part of the ninth amounted to little to the Stanford boys as Smith and Messer fanned when Embry singled and was caught at second on Walters ball to short.

Following is the line up of the two teams:

Lancaster	IB	Stanford
Kinnaird	L. F.	S. Embry
Jenkins	C. F.	Grimes
Cox	C.	Walters
Lackey	S. S.	Withers
Walker	3B.	Hill
Anderson	2B.	Messer
Woods	P.	Nevius
Williams	R. F.	Tucker and Embry
Duke		Smith

On account of the Chautauqua there will be no games at Lancaster this week. But next Wednesday our boys play at Harrodsburg. On Friday, July 15th, our boys play here against Burgin.

CONTRIBUTED BY KENTUCKIANS For China Famine Fund

The Chairman of the China Famine Committee, Mr. E. Y. Mullins, announces that as the campaign draws to a close, the record of contributions from Louisville and Kentucky is most gratifying. The total receipts for China Famine Relief from Louisville and Kentucky have been as follows:

Up to June 22, 1921 the amount sent through the Louisville office at the Board of Trade has been $65,279.24

The Amount sent direct to the New York office from various points in Kentucky has been 23,800.00

The amount sent to Atlanta, Ga. from various points in Kentucky has been 2,108.01

Thus the total raised thru the efforts of the China Relief Committee has been $91,187.25

If there should be added to the above receipts the gifts that have been made by the various denominations through their mission boards for the relief of China famine sufferers, it would be necessary to add from $75,000.00 to $100,000.00 to the above total, making a grand total of $166,000.00 to $175,000.00 contributed from Kentucky for China famine relief. It is anticipated by the State Executive Committee that when all reports are in of the various county organizations throughout the state, that Kentucky will have subscribed its voluntary assumed quota of $100,000.00.

The China Famine Committee considers that in view of the many appeals which have been made to Kentucky gives in recent years, this is a most creditable showing.

It is announced by the General Committee that any money received after the close of the campaign will be used to care for the children who have been made orphans by the famine and to further prevent the spread of the famine in China. When the campaign is officially closed the Committee has made arrangements for the treasurer, Mr. Joseph Hurge, to continue in this capacity to receive and forward any additional funds that may be contributed. Contributions may be sent, therefore, as heretofore to Joseph Hurge, Board of Trade Building, Louisville, Ky.

Alvin Invents a Heart Opener

By WILLIAM FALL

It was a patent rat trap that broke up the engagement of Miss Viola Barton and Alvin Draper. It had sundried them, brought out a sharp definite announcement from the estimable lady, and a declaration from Alvin that it would make no difference—he would always cherish his lost love and—hope.

"She was always fine as silk," insisted Alvin a year afterwards. May-be time will make a difference—time and my damage suit."

The "damage suit" was history in the town. It all came out of the rat trap.

When Alvin invented his great rat trap his fiancée did not say much, for it looked as though he had really struck it at last.

At the zenith of his inventive glory, however, there came a dampener. He was sued for infringement on a previous patent. Two years passed by, and the case was still pending. It had cost him several thousand dollars in legal fees, and after he had stubbornly resisted the pleadings of Viola to forget the whole thing and invest what was left in some practical business, she broke the engagement. "I'm bound to win," insisted Alvin. Why, the Specialty Manufacturing company has a standing offer of ten thousand dollars for my patent the minute the courts give me a clear title."

Alvin and Viola went to the same church. It had run down because its pastors had been slow-going, easily contented men, and the congregation had been spoiled thereby. Finally a new minister was assigned. It turned out to be Edward Barton, a favorite brother of Viola.

"The church needs all kinds of repairs," he confidentially imparted to Alvin one day.

Alvin reflected over all this. He met his former fiancée on the street. She looked her brother, and when Alvin referred to him she forgot the snarl between them.

"I think I see a way," said Alvin. "Oh, if you only could," began Viola and then she flushed crimson, remembering the past.

Immediately Alvin forgot the pending suit.

The young minister was called away from town temporarily. The evening there was a church social. Alvin was always the life and leader of such functions. Viola was also there. Alvin rapped on a table for order and attention.

"Friends," he said, placing a box before him, "I have something to say before we go up to our homes. This is the best church in the world—fixed up. Our splendid young pastor is the best preacher in the world—paid up. We've all got into a mean and stingy rut. Let's get out of it."

The church deacons looked askance, the lay members curious and excited.

"You know I'm a sort of dabbler in inventions," proceeded Alvin, placing his hand on the box. "This is my latest one. It's called 'the cash annihilator,' and I've got it especially for this church."

Alvin took off the cover of the box, and grim, expectant silence. Then he placed beside it some coins.

"This is my patent collection box," he proceeded, "and I want the church to adopt it. My contribution will be the coins you see here. Now observe. I wish to donate a dollar."

He slipped a silver dollar through the slot in the box. A mellow tinkle seemed to gently thank the donor.

"Twenty-five cents."

A hoarse cracked bell note rang out. "One cent," spoke Alvin finally.

An unearthly racket came from the box.

The audience snickered—some of them roared with laughter. Miserly John Duke, the richest man in town, looked sheepish. Robert Jones, second in social importance, scowled severely. Then the corner of his lips began to twitch.

"Mr. Draper," he spoke out, "you can put a five-dollar attachment for me regularly on that invention of yours."

"I'll make it ten," announced Mr. Duke, after a pause.

"Yes, no more pennies," spoke up Deacon Smith. "You've given us a good lesson, Mr. Draper. I'm for appreciating the old church and the young minister as they deserve to be."

The following Sunday showed practical results, the next letter still. That week Alvin received a letter which he greeted with a hurrah—his suit was won.

He met Viola, her face beaming, that afternoon.

"I must congratulate you on your good fortune," she said brightly. "And oh! what magic wonders you have accomplished with the church. The trustees have raised five thousand dollars, and my brother will be taken care of as he should. I am afraid—I mean I must confess that you have invented a new way to reach my heart."

Surgical Implements of Flint.
Stone age tools are being used in Bulgarian hospitals to perform surgical operations. In the absence of any steel instruments whatever with which to operate, the Russian surgeons in charge have taken a leaf from the book of their prehistoric ancestors, and have used chipped flints. Moreover a freshly chipped flint has an excellent cutting edge and possesses perfect immunity from infection.

WRAPPED ICE

Reduces Ice Chest Efficiency.

Wrapping ice in newspapers to retard melting is the result of a mistaken idea and prevents a free circulation of cool air through the refrigerator chambers, according to home economic specialists from the College of Agriculture. This suggestion is included among a number given by the specialists to housewives on the care of the refrigerator during the summer. This piece of household equipment is often neglected, they say, with the result that ice is wasted and unpleasant odors and disease germs permitted to contaminate the food.

"A thorough study of the construction of the refrigerator and circulation of air through it until all the details concerning it are well known is the first requisite in proper management of the ice chest."

"The first step in keeping the refrigerator clean and sanitary is to use clean ice if it can be obtained. The next is to clean up at once any food spilled on the walls or shelves of the refrigerator. Washing the refrigerator once each week with cold water and soda and wiping it dry after cleaning are necessities."

"The drain pipe also needs particular attention and should be removed twice each week, cleaned with hot soap suds and scalded. It should not be replaced until cool."

"Have the ice man leave one or two large pieces of ice rather than several small ones as the larger pieces last longer."

"Keep the ice box well filled. Cooling off a warm refrigerator wastes a large amount of ice. Keep clean, stoppered, bottles of drinking water on ice rather than use ice to cool the water."

"Know before you open the door of the refrigerator just what you wish to remove, take it out quickly and close the door."

COL. ARMSTRONG'S COMMENT ON CENSUS REPORT OF KENTUCKY HORSES

The War Department is interested in the increase of Pure-Bred Horses

"There is the utmost need in this country today of increasing the number of pure-bred horses, particularly those of the thoroughbred type, on which the War Department must depend for its cavalry mounts in case of national emergency."

The above is a passage from the statement by Col. Frank S. Armstrong, Chief of the U. S. Army Remount Service, relative to the 1920 census of Kentucky horses.

The unbusinesslike of practical, patriotic men like Colonel Armstrong over the situation was amply justified by the lesson of the last great war, which so strikingly demonstrated the value of the horse in connection with modern warfare and revealed what would have become a pitiful shortage, had the Germans held out only a very few weeks longer than they did.

Nor must we forget the importance of breeding better horses more extensively in times of peace. Better bred horses mean better work horses; better prices for them, and a readier market.

The 1920 census figures indicate that Kentucky, as usual, will lead her sister states as to both number and class of horses, but even we are far from approaching what should be our quota in either count.

Colonel Armstrong's statement in full is as follows:

"Despite the very small amount of pure-bred stock, as compared with the total number of horses in the state, I believe that, when similar figures for the other states become available, a comparison of all will show that Kentucky still holds its rank as the foremost state in producing thoroughbreds."

The relatively small percentage of thoroughbreds and of other classes of pure-bred stock included in the total number of horses in Kentucky, is a general, and not a local, situation, and the other states probably will show even smaller percentages. The same conditions, I am told, prevail with livestock other than horses, though probably not to the same extent as with the latter. The census report upholds and justifies the position taken by the American Remount Association that there is the utmost need in this country today of increasing the number of pure-bred horses, particularly those of the thoroughbred type, on which the War Department must depend for its cavalry mounts in case of national emergency, and which it met with great difficulty in procuring in such great numbers during the recent war. The national need of upbuilding and increasing American thoroughbred horses can not, in my opinion, be over emphasized."

Hot Weather Pointers To Shippers Of Hogs.

To prevent losses to hogs in transit during the hot weather, the Live Stock Department of the Southern Railway System has issued the following suggestions to shippers:

Load or drive hogs to station in ample time to allow them to become rested and cool before loading.

When ordering a car for loading hogs, insist upon a clean one bedded with sand, clay or earth.

Wet thoroughly the bedding and interior of car before loading.

Give only a small feed of grain before shipping. Heavy feed means more body heat generated.

Load not more than one hour before the train is to depart.

Load slowly and carefully. Avoid excitement and do not beat or bruise the animals.

Load not to exceed 14,000 pounds fat hogs and 16,000 pounds stock hogs in a standard 36 ft. car during warm weather.

Have water applied to the bedding at the train stops.

Use ice on floor of car whenever possible three blocks to a car.

Report inattention or neglect promptly to Superintendent of Division on which shipment originates. Never throw water directly upon hogs after they become heated. Run it on floor of car under hogs instead.

The United States produces more paper than any other country in the world, but it needs it in recording the things that congress doesn't do. Why Many Don't Save Saving money you will find, is not wholly a Dollars-and-Cents matter. This statement may sound strange, but it is true.

Saving money is, first of all, a Brain-and-Back-bone matter. And this is just the reason why so many people who make money can't save any of it—they don't think and have little self-control.

Happily, however, there are very few who cannot learn the necessary lessons, if they will.

The time to start is to-day, and the place—this Bank. We'll help by adding 4 per cent interest, compounded semi-annually.

FARM LIVE STOCK

MUCH LOSS IN BEEF CATTLE

Average Price Per Head Dropped From $44.22 in 1919 to $31.41 in 1921—Hogs Also Drop.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Beef cattle on farms lost in average value per head from January 1, 1919, to January 1, 1921, all that they gained during the participation of the United States in the World war and more than half as much again, according to the bureau of crop estimates, United States Department of Agriculture. The loss occurred mostly in 1920. This has been established beyond doubt by the recent annual investigation of prices of farm animals per head made by the bureau. The average price per head, all ages, of cattle other than milk cows was $32.02 in 1917, $44.22 in 1919, and $31.41 in 1921. On January 1, last year, the farm price was $4.51 below that of 1917, some months before this country declared war.

In the case of swine on farms, the average price per head, all ages, declined in the two years 1919 and 1920, 88 per cent of the gain in 1917 and 1918, and two-thirds of the decline was in 1920.

From 1919 to 1921 the average farm value of the product of corn per acre increased from $1.47 to $3.84. The corn crop of 1920, taking the average value of the product of one acre, fell to $2.90 and this drop not only wiped out the gain of the preceding three years but perceptibly exceeded it. The commonly used percentage of decline since the break in price began, fails to discover this fact, because a percentage of decline from a higher number is not comparable with a percentage of gain during the preceding years, which is based on a comparatively low number.

FARM DOG IS ALSO PUREBRED

Ohio Farmer Keeps Registered Cattle and Hogs—Poultry Entirely of Pure Breeding.

Of 95 head of live stock on an Ohio farm, 88 are purebred, according to the owner, who is cooperating with the United States Department of Agriculture in the better-breeds movement. The statement of the pure breeding is verified by two other live stock owners.

A registered Aberdeen Angus bull and a registered Duroc-Jersey boar are kept. One grade Angus cow and four crossbred sows are the only stock not purebred. The poultry are entirely Barred Plymouth Rocks of pure breeding. The farm dog, a beagle, is also purebred.

TREES THRIVE IN ODD LAND

Hillsides, Corners and Waste Strips Can Be Made Quite Useful in Growing Timber.

By planting hillsides, odd corners on the farm where a road or railroad has cut it off and places where erosion has been bad, a good return on such an investment can be gotten. If land is subject to overflow cottonwood will grow and it will in a short time furnish desirable rough lumber. Soft woods make excellent fence posts when treated with creosote and have been found to last over ten years which makes them desirable from the standpoint of cost.

SUMMER ATTENTION TO HOGS

Foundation Laid at This Time to Begin Things Necessary for Cheap Production of Pork.

You may think that your hog crop needs the least of your thought and attention during the summer months, but it would pay many pork producers immensely to give deeper thought to this summer handling of the herd than they do, for at this time can easily be laid the foundation of successful avoidance of many troubles as well as to begin some things necessary for cheap pork production.

ONE-THIRD OF HENS

In State Planning For 1921 Vacation

Stop Laying in July And August And Laid Until Spring—Certain Characteristics Shown.

During July and August approximately 3,143,275 Kentucky hens will stop laying and loaf until the following spring, according to estimates made by specialists in the poultry department of the College of Agriculture. The estimates were made from results obtained last year in the poultry culling campaign which showed that one-third of the hens in the State loafed after the months named. Those hens are the early molters of the flock and certain characteristics which they show at this time of the year make it easy for the farmer to distinguish them from the layers and cull them from the flock, according to the specialists. The factors which are important in determining the loafers are summarized in Circular No. 101 which has just been issued by the college.

"When a bird stops laying in the summer she usually starts molting. The later a hen lays in the summer or the longer the period over which she lays the greater will be her production so that the high producer is the late layer and hence the late molter. The length of time that a hen has been molting and has stopped laying can be determined by the rate of renewal of the feathers. First the body feathers are shed, the tail feathers next and then those of the wings.

"Color changes due to laying take place in the vent, break and shanks. Laying uses up the surplus fat in the body and especially removes the fat from the skin. The different parts of the body tend to bleach and become white as the stored fat is used. The vent changes very quickly with egg production so that a white or pink vent means that the bird is laying. The color goes out of the beak beginning at the base and gradually disappearing until it leaves the front part of the upper beak. The shanks are the slowest to bleach out. A bleached shank usually indicates fairly heavy egg production for at least 15 to 20 weeks.

"Heavy production is also shown by the quality of the skin. Heavy producers have a soft, velvety skin that is not underlain with layers of hard fat. The head of a high layer is also fine, the wattles and earlobes fitting closely to the beak. A good layer is more active and nervous and yet more easily handled than a poor layer.

"If the comb, wattles and earlobes are large, full and smooth or hard and waxy the bird is laying heavily. If the comb is limp, the bird is only laying slightly but not laying at all when the comb is dried down especially at molting time."

Barren Farmers Increase Number Of Purebred Sires.

The number of purebred sires on Barren county farms is increasing, according to a report of County Agent J. O. Horning which states that 17 registered sires have been brought into the county by different farmers during the last 14 months. Nine of the animals were purchased as a result of the campaign for better sires-better livestock.

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.
